

CROP PROSPECTS ARE EXTRA GOOD

BETTER PREPARATION HAS PUSHED CORN—BANNER OAT
CROP—PEANUTS AND SWEET
POTATOES SHOULD BE PLANT-ED.

Reports from agents in the field indicate excellent prospects for all coming in Florida. The long spell of dry weather that the farmers have been experiencing throughout the state in the winter and early spring months does not appear to have had the disastrous results some predicted it would have. This is especially true where thorough preparation of soil, best methods of breaking same, and preparation of seed bed were practiced by the farmers.

In the northern and western part of the state especially corn is very good. Farmers have, as a general rule, made better preparation, and while they have suffered perhaps more than the farmers in the southern section from the dry weather, the crop appears to be holding its own.

The oat crop has been harvested and in some sections the farmers report the largest crops that have ever been produced. This is especially true of Gadsden and Madison counties. Mr. W. C. Barrineau of Escambia county had 400 acres in oats and harvested the largest crop he has ever had. He is now shipping this in carload lots to Alabama.

Plant Peanuts Now.
It has been found after several years' experience by most of our best farmers that a very profitable crop to grow after oats is peanuts. There are several varieties of peanuts in use, any of which can be made profitable by plowing the oat stubble deep enough to insure a good seed bed and planting the peanuts on that. The peanut rows should be from thirty-six to forty-two inches apart, depending on the type of the crop. Enough space should be allowed between the rows to permit of cultivation by shallow working tools during the growing period. Where hogs are in evidence on the farm, peanuts make a good feed. Some people think peanut-fed pork will not give the best type. Claims that land from peanut-fed animals will not get as solid as where corn is used are unjustified.

Peanuts planted between July 1 and 10 have been found to be desirable because they will be growing during the rainy period, and be ready to harvest when the rainy season is over in September or October.

Sweet Potatoes.
Another good crop to follow oats

ALFORD'S NAME IS PLACED ON BALLOT

EVEN IN NOT DESIGNATING
GROUP NUMBER IS WAIVED
BY CIRCUIT COURT, MAKING A BROAD DECISION.

Marianna, Fla., June 3.—The case of Claude L. Alford vs. Jackson County Board of County Commissioners in mandamus proceedings came to a close today when Judge C. L. Wilson issued the writ ordering Mr. Alford's name placed on the ballot next Tuesday.

The county board refused to certify Mr. Alford's name as a candidate for representative on the ground that he failed to designate the group number in which he wished to run. The circuit judge in rendering his opinion stated that the section requiring candidates to name the group number was inoperative because the subject matter of the amended act was not embodied in the enacting clause.

This case has excited considerable interest as the public generally has been in sympathy with Mr. Alford and believed that he should not be deprived of the right to have his name on the ticket because of a clerical error of so small a consequence, especially since he has stated all along in his published announcement and in his speeches that he was a candidate in group two and the fact was one of common knowledge.

is sweet potatoes. The land should be well bedded, not too high, with four feet apart, from center to center, and planted any time before the first of July will give good results.

The matter of growing larger numbers of live stock in the state is taking hold of the farmers to a large degree, also dipping of cattle, this being stressed more than ever before. The state of Florida offers great possibilities in live stock production, and our farmers are beginning to awaken to this fact.

When the cattle tick is eliminated this can be made very profitable, and when you take into account our long seasons here and our ability to grow a variety of forage crops and silage material, in a few years we expect the live stock industry to be the largest in the state.

The close of a long and exciting campaign is almost at hand. The various candidates have done their level best to impress upon the voters their claims for consideration, and on next Tuesday it will be the duty of the voters to select the wheat from the chaff, and to separate the sheep from the goats. Doubtless there will be quite a herd of "billies" on next Wednesday.

This campaign has been a source of great pleasure to me. I have made many new friends, and I am proud to say that I don't think I have made many enemies. I have conducted a clean, honest and straightforward campaign, with everything above board. I have relied upon my ability, my record and my character as a man (all that I possess) to carry me through, and it is a winning ticket.

The county needs the best men available in our public office. Your election of Bob Edmundson to the office of Harbormaster will be a guarantee that the administration of this office will receive the best that is in me,—courteous treatment and satisfaction to all who may have business with the office.

Your vote for Bob Edmundson for Harbormaster, either first or second choice, will be sincerely appreciated.
